What to Expect During the Free Eye Exam

A free eye exam included in a 2 pair eyeglasses offer is typically a comprehensive vision assessment performed by a licensed optometrist or ophthalmologist. The exam evaluates not only visual acuity but also eye health and potential vision disorders. Understanding the exam process can help individuals prepare and know what to anticipate.

Components of a Standard Eye Exam

The typical eye exam includes several key tests designed to assess various aspects of vision and ocular health:

- Visual Acuity Test: Measures clarity of vision using an eye chart to determine the need for corrective lenses.
- Refraction Assessment: Determines the precise prescription required for glasses or contact lenses through a series of lenses and readings.
- Eye Health Evaluation: Includes examination of the retina, cornea, and other eye structures to detect conditions like glaucoma, cataracts, or macular degeneration.
- Binocular Vision and Eye Movement Tests: Assesses how well the eyes work together and their alignment.
- Intraocular Pressure Measurement: Screens for glaucoma by measuring pressure inside the eye.

Duration and Preparation

The free eye exam usually lasts between 20 to 40 minutes, depending on the complexity of the tests required. No special preparation is needed, but bringing current eyewear and a list of any eye health concerns or symptoms can be helpful. The results from the exam form the basis for selecting the appropriate lenses for the two pairs of eyeglasses included in the promotion.
