Overview of Crowned Heads Blood Medicine

Crowned Heads Blood Medicine is a premium cigar that has established itself as a flagship offering within the Crowned Heads portfolio. This cigar is celebrated for its unique blend and robust character, making it a favorite among those seeking a full-bodied smoking experience. The name "Blood Medicine" pays homage to traditional healing practices, symbolizing the cigar's potent and invigorating qualities. Crafted with precision, it appeals to both seasoned smokers and newcomers looking to explore richer and more complex tobacco varieties. The product is available in several sizes, providing options for different smoking preferences and durations.

Origins and Inspiration

The creation of Blood Medicine was inspired by the desire to produce a cigar that embodies strength, complexity, and balance. Crowned Heads collaborated with expert growers and blenders to source rare and high-quality tobaccos. The blend's name reflects a metaphor for the cigar's ability to invigorate the senses and provide a revitalizing experience. Since its introduction, Blood Medicine has received critical acclaim and numerous accolades within the cigar community.

Available Sizes and Formats

Crowned Heads offers Blood Medicine in multiple vitolas, including robusto, toro, and lancero formats. Each size is designed to highlight different aspects of the blend, allowing smokers to tailor their experience. The variations also cater to different occasions, whether a quick smoke or a leisurely session.

Tobacco Blend and Construction

The quality of crowned heads blood medicine is largely attributed to its carefully selected tobacco blend and expert construction. The cigar features a complex combination of wrappers, fillers, and binders sourced from various renowned tobacco regions. This blend is engineered to deliver depth, richness, and consistency throughout the smoking process.

Wrapper Leaf

The wrapper of Blood Medicine is typically a Nicaraguan Habano leaf, known for its oily texture and spicy notes. This wrapper contributes significantly to the overall flavor profile, adding a layer of complexity and a slightly peppery finish. The wrapper is carefully aged and cured to ensure optimal combustion and flavor delivery.

Binder and Filler Composition

The binder and filler tobaccos come from a blend of Nicaraguan and Honduran leaves, chosen for their robust flavor and strength. The combination creates a balanced smoke that is both powerful and smooth, with an intricate interplay of earthy, woody, and spicy undertones. The filler tobaccos are aged for extended periods to enhance their natural qualities and reduce harshness.

Construction Quality

Every Blood Medicine cigar undergoes meticulous hand-rolling by skilled artisans. The construction emphasizes an even burn, firm draw, and consistent ash formation. This attention to detail ensures a pleasurable and flawless smoking experience from start to finish.

Flavor Profile and Tasting Notes

The flavor profile of crowned heads blood medicine is rich, bold, and multi-dimensional. It offers a blend of spicy, sweet, and earthy notes that evolve throughout the smoking session. The cigar is designed to provide a complex yet approachable taste experience, appealing to smokers who appreciate nuance and depth.

Initial Flavors

Upon lighting, the blood medicine cigar reveals prominent spicy and peppery notes, complemented by hints of cocoa and subtle sweetness. These initial flavors immediately engage the palate and set the tone for the full-bodied experience.

Mid-Session Development

As the cigar progresses, flavors deepen with increased earthiness and woody undertones. Notes of leather and coffee emerge, balancing the spice and adding richness. The smoke becomes creamier, contributing to a smoother draw and enhanced complexity.

Finish and Aftertaste

The finish of the Blood Medicine is long-lasting with a pleasant warmth. Smokers often note a lingering spice combined with subtle nutty and cedar hints. The aftertaste is clean, encouraging repeat enjoyment and appreciation of the blend's sophistication.

Pairing Recommendations

Pairing crowned heads blood medicine with complementary beverages and environments enhances the overall smoking experience. The cigar's bold character pairs well with rich flavors that can match or balance its intensity.

Beverage Pairings

- Whiskey: Aged bourbon or rye whiskey complements the spice and earthiness of the cigar.
- Coffee: Dark roast coffee or espresso enhances the cocoa and coffee notes within the blend.
- Red Wine: Full-bodied red wines, such as Cabernet Sauvignon or Malbec, balance the cigar's richness.
- Cocktails: Classic cocktails like the Old Fashioned or Manhattan provide a smooth, flavorful counterpart.
