The Reading and Writing sections are combined into an Evidence-Based Reading and Writing (EBRW) score ranging from 200 to 800. The Math section is scored separately, also on a 200 to 800 scale. These two scores are added to produce the total SAT score, which ranges from 400 to 1600. Correct answers from the May 2017 SAT test answers directly impact these scores, while unanswered or incorrect responses do not incur penalties.

Essay Scoring

For students who completed the essay, three separate scores from 2 to 8 are awarded for Reading, Analysis, and Writing.
