- Frequency of eye contact from a specific individual

Some quizzes offer detailed analyses, while others give simple answers like "Yes," "No," or "Maybe." It is important to consider the quiz results as indicative rather than definitive, as they rely on subjective input and generalized patterns.

Psychological Basis Behind the Quiz

Behavioral Indicators of Attraction

Psychological studies identify several common behaviors exhibited by individuals who have a crush, including increased attention, mirroring body language, and nervous gestures. The quiz questions are often based on these documented signs to gauge romantic interest indirectly.
