Overview of Crime Rates in Williamsport, PA

Williamsport, Pennsylvania, has experienced varying crime rates over recent years, reflecting broader social and economic factors impacting the city. Crime rates are typically measured by the number of reported offenses per 1,000 residents, providing a standardized way to assess safety. Williamsport's crime rate data includes both violent and property crimes, which together offer a comprehensive picture of the city's security situation.

Annual Crime Rate Statistics

According to the latest available data, Williamsport's overall crime rate is moderately higher than the national average but aligns closely with other cities of similar size within Pennsylvania. The annual crime report categorizes offenses into violent crimes—such as assault, robbery, and homicide—and property crimes like burglary, theft, and motor vehicle theft.

- Violent crime rate: approximately 6 to 8 incidents per 1,000 residents.
- Property crime rate: roughly 25 to 30 incidents per 1,000 residents.
- Overall crime rate: slightly above 30 incidents per 1,000 residents.

These statistics provide a baseline for understanding the relative safety of Williamsport and highlight areas where crime prevention efforts may be focused.

Types of Crimes Reported in Williamsport

Analyzing the specific types of crimes reported in Williamsport, PA, reveals key trends and risk factors affecting the community. Crimes are generally categorized into violent crimes and property crimes, each posing different challenges for residents and law enforcement.

Violent Crimes in Williamsport

Violent crimes encompass offenses involving force or threat against individuals. In Williamsport, the most common violent crimes include aggravated assault and robbery. While homicide rates remain relatively low, these other violent offenses contribute significantly to the overall violent crime statistics.

Property Crimes in Williamsport

Property crimes make up the majority of reported offenses in Williamsport. These crimes include burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson. Larceny-theft, often involving shoplifting or theft from vehicles, is particularly prevalent. Understanding the distribution of property crimes helps local authorities prioritize preventive measures.

- Burglary: unlawful entry with intent to commit a crime, often theft.
- Larceny-theft: theft of property without force or breaking in.
- Motor vehicle theft: stealing or attempting to steal a vehicle.
- Arson: intentional setting of fires to property.

Comparative Crime Analysis: Williamsport vs. State and National Levels

To contextualize Williamsport PA crime statistics, it is important to compare local crime rates with those of Pennsylvania as a whole and with national averages. This comparison helps identify whether Williamsport experiences crime at elevated levels relative to broader benchmarks.

Williamsport Compared to Pennsylvania

Williamsport's crime rates tend to be higher than the Pennsylvania state average, particularly in categories of violent crime. Several factors contribute to this disparity, including economic conditions, population density, and urban challenges. Property crime rates in Williamsport also exceed the state average but are consistent with other mid-sized cities in Pennsylvania.

Williamsport Compared to National Averages

When compared to national crime statistics, Williamsport's overall crime rate remains above the median for cities of similar population size. Violent crime rates are notably higher than the national average, while property crime figures are moderately elevated. This comparative analysis underscores the need for targeted crime reduction strategies in Williamsport.

Recent Crime Trends and Patterns
